

Torrance Man Named To Aid Junior Achievers

Fred Rathert of Torrance is in charge of schools and achievers for the Southwest District Council of Junior Achievement. His term will be for the year 1962-63, according to Manny Wise, JA district manager.

Others who will serve the JA movement in neighboring communities are as follows:

W. F. Snelling, executive vice-president of Los Angeles division of North American Aviation, Inc., again will serve as chairman. Others, including many who also have been active in the growing JA movement are:

R. L. Allen, manager of operations, Minneapolis Honeywell, Gardena, in charge of recruiting counselling firms and advisers.

Robert K. Shellaby, investments, of Westchester, public relations.

Don Christianson, director of information, Thiokol Corp., El Segundo, assistant fund chairman.

George Eichelbach, executive vice-president, McCulloch Corp., Westchester.

Dr. Jefferson Garner, superintendent, Centinela Valley Unified School District.

The fund chairman is to be named.

Following the windup of the JA year in June, Southwest District Council is spending the summer organizing counselling firms and orienting advisers in preparation for the expected increase of teen-age boys and girls from the many high schools in the area who will form new corporations in the fall and run them dur-

Award Contracts For Controlling Air Pollution

Contracts totaling $453,734 for services of the Air Pollution Control District to agencies of the state were approved yesterday by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The APCD will charge $209,000 to test motor vehicle exhaust control devices for the State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board and will do research for the State Department of Public Health under a $244,734 contract.

These contracts raise the total revenue to the APCD from the other levels of government to $576,808. Work is already in progress on contracts with the U.S. Public Health Service in conjunction with research into the effects upon animals of exposure to the atmosphere of the Los Angeles Basin.

Projects to be undertaken for the State Department of Public Health include measurements of exhaust and crankcase emissions of American made standard and compact cars, foreign cars, and of truck, as well as environmental chamber studies of eye-irritation and the effect of sunlight on various air pollutants.

The work being done for the Motor Pollution Control Board includes the actual testing of control devices submitted to be certified for wide-scale installation under the state program to reduce smog formed from vehicle emissions. The APCD is also obtaining basic data for the State Board.

Registration at Harbor July 5, 6

A last reminder of registration dates for Harbor College's Summer Session is issued by Dr. V. Bacon, Dean of the summer session. Final registration dates are July 5 and 6 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. Instruction will begin on Monday, July 9, and last until August 17.

More than 130 courses are scheduled in classes offered in the regular program of the college with a choice of morning, afternoon, or evening classes in many subjects.

ECC Science Instructor at NSF Institute

Warren E. Ford, El Camino College nuclear science instructor, will participate in the National Science Foundation-Atomic Energy Commission Summer Institute in Radiation in the physical sciences at Iowa State University.

Ford's studies will parallel courses offered at El Camino which include work in advanced atomic and nuclear physics and the interaction of radiation with materials.

Further information may be obtained by phoning or visiting the college at 1111 Figueroa Pl., Wilmington.

Two other programs undertaken during the summer institute include experimental radiation work with the 10-Kw reactor of the department of nuclear engineering of Iowa State and a seminar in teaching radiation.

Scope of the teaching seminar encompasses subjects such as curriculum of radiation courses, methods of presentation, equipment requirements and characteristics and health and safety administration.

Ford has previously attended NSF institutes for college teachers in the nuclear field at Oregon State University and Louisiana State University.

A graduate of Iowa and Western Illinois University, Ford has had 10 years of experience in the heavy chemical, petroleum, steel and motion picture industries.

His course at El Camino, Nuclear Science 10, is designed to train personnel in nuclear science theory and the handling and use of radio isotopes.

Dubuffet Art Exhibit July 11

Sixty-nine of the world's great art collections are represented in the exhibition of works by Jean Dubuffet, widely discussed French artist, opening at the Los Angeles County Museum on Wednesday, July 11. There will be a members preview on Tuesday evening July 10, at 8 p.m. of this admission fee (50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children) show which continues through August 12.

Among the lenders to the exhibition are five leading museums — Baltimore Museum of Art, Art Institute of Chicago, Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, New York, Museum of Modern Art, New York, Kunstmuseum, Silkeborg, Denmark—nine galleries and 55 collections around the world.

DANGEROUS DRIVERS

Dangerous drivers seem to be the most gullible, according to hypnotic studies of drivers with bad accident records. Under hypnosis, they revealed that they automatically assumed other drivers were safe, brakes would work in time, and that there were never approaching cars around a curve or over a hill.
